About your Trinity examiner

Amanda Copp

BA Hons, DTEFLA

Amanda studied Modern Foreign Languages at Westminster University. She has been teaching English since 1988 and her experience is wide and varied, including posts in both the state and private educational sectors, working with adults and children.

Amanda has many years' experience as a course director and teacher trainer for Trinity TESOL Certificate Courses. Her overseas work experience includes EFL posts with the British Council in Thailand, and as a TESOL course director on refugee programmes. She has also been involved in the development of interactive English Language programmes for use on the internet and local networks.

As well as her examining work, Amanda currently teaches EAP and ESOL in Bournemouth. She also tutors a number of primary and secondary school children for selective examinations in English, Mathematics and Verbal Reasoning.
