About your Trinity examiner

Damian O'Donovan

Damian has studied at the University of Reading, Aston and Bristol. He first started teaching EFL in Poland in 1990, following on from a career in the Polish theatre.

He co-founded an English language school in Pomerania and was employed as a lecturer in the British Council studium at Warsaw Polytechnic. Duties included teaching staff in the Polish Ministry of Finance and Council of Ministers. He is fluent in Polish.

Damian returned to the UK in 1994 and taught in a wide variety of posts. He finished a higher degree and diploma in TEFL before specialising in EAP and English for business. He has taught at the Universities of Bristol, QMUL (London) and Bath Spa, and is now a freelance Business English trainer. Clients have included all levels of learners of many different nationalities and with many different needs.

He is based in Bristol.
