TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON

About your Trinity examiner

Michael Butler

After a number of years working in financial services, Michael became an English teacher in the 1990s and worked in the Czech Republic, Spain, Italy, Saudi Arabia, Singapore and Vietnam.

When he returned to the UK, he worked in Cambridge on a number of different English language courses and projects, including university preparation courses and undergraduate language programmes.

He has been a member of the Trinity GESE, ISE and SELT examiner panels since he moved to Liverpool in 2016. He is also an external examiner for UK university access programmes.

He has a first degree, a DELTA and an MA in Applied Linguistics.

In his free time, he enjoys running and walking. He also watches sport, mainly football and cricket: Doncaster Rovers in the winter and Nottinghamshire in the summer.
